

News

Some news that'll affect the next few episodes

Tuesday 3rd of July, 2007

20:45

Hi folks,

No, don't panic - it's not bad news. I've been getting some fantastic feedback from you all, and the number of listeners has been creeping back up since the problems with the podcasting directory and iTunes messup from last month.

But that's not what I'm writing about right now. The bit of news I want to mention is that there's been an addition to the family this week - an extra-ordinary guy (!) in the shape of a very, very little guy.

What this means is that I'll be slower to get the next few shows up and edited, since I normally do the editing at night - and I'm assuming I'll be trying to get as much sleep as I possibly can in the next couple of months - so I might be a day (or few) late getting each episode finished off.

Thanks,

The Ordinary Guy